GLENDALE CITY IMPROVEMENT DAY

LET US MAKE GLENDALE A CITY BEAUTIFUL

Saturday Next, December 7th, to be a Holiday Devoted to Cleaning Up the City—The Work Started by the Ladies to be Carried On by Everybody

LET EVERYBODY WORK, INCLUDING FATHER

Roadways, Parkways, Sidewalks, Vacant Lots are No Longer to be an Offense to the Eye, but Objects to Attract the Visitor and be a Comfort to the Folks at Home—The Man with the Hoe, the Boy with the Rake, and the Man with the Horse and Wagon to be Guests of the Ladies of Glendale

Oh, surely you have heard the news,
Which everybody greets:
The noxious weed no more shall grow
Upon our Glendale streets.

The tumble weed shall cease to roll
About where'er it lists;
We'll knock it out in one good bout
With aggregated fists.

The milk-weed and the malva, too,
Must from our town retire;
With rake and hoe we'll make them go
To feed the merry fire.

And all the other things that mar
The aspect of our town,
At them we'll shake the hoe and rake,
Relentless, cut them down.

Then welcome to the man of brawn
Who comes to save the town;
And welcome to the lusty youth;
Success our zeal will crown.

Then up and at them, one and all!
Charge with the deadly hoe;
Then windrows make with agile rake,
Then bonfires of the foe!

But drink one toast before we part,
Swing hoe and rake and spadies;
When men would shirk, to make them work
The good Lord sent the ladies!

We alluded briefly last week to the fact that the civics committee of the Tuesday Afternoon Club had taken up with the City Trustees the matter of setting a day apart as a holiday in Glendale, to be devoted to the cleaning up of our streets. The Board of Trustees and the Board of Trade, acting upon the suggestion of the ladies, have taken hold of the matter, and it is going to be made a success. The committee has fixed upon next Saturday, the 7th, as the day when Glendale shall be cleaned up. Mayor Parcher will be Generalissimo, assisted by Messrs. Sinclair, Sternberg, Goode, Dan Campbell, Barager and other able lieutenants, all lusty men with the hoe and guaranteed to have prodigious appetites for coffee, pumpkin pie and things.

The civics committee consists of Mrs. J. C. Sherer, chairman, Mrs. C. B. Guentheart, Mrs. F. L. Church, Mrs. G. E. Williams and Mrs. J. N. Witham. These ladies, with a regiment of energetic assistants, will be on hand to encourage and refresh.

Luncheon will be served at Fourth and Glendale avenue to the workers by the ladies of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, under the management of Mrs. J. A. Farrell, of Belmont street, who has appointed the following committees:

On Brown Bread.

Mrs. Bryant, first chairman, assisted by Mesdames Barket, Church, C. C Campbell and Moyse.

Second chairman, Mrs. B. H. Nichols, assisted by Mesdames Webster, Winslow, Wood and Leavitt.

Beans.

First chairman, Mrs. Pack, assisted by Mrs. C. B. Guentheart, the Misses Penn and Miss Mabel Patterson.

Second chairman, Mrs. Alex Mitchell, assisted by Mrs. McNutt, Miss Emma Williams, Mrs. Newton and Mrs. J. W. Parker.

Pies.

First chairman, Mrs. Monroe, assisted by Mesdames Pitcher, Newcomb, Ogg and Potts.

Second chairman, Mrs. Hackman, assisted by Mrs. R. E. Chase, Mrs. Dana Fiske, Mrs. Fraley and Mrs. Banker.

Third chairman, Mrs. Ezra Parker, assisted by Mesdames Rice, Ryan, Taylor and Morris.

Coffee and Cream.

Chairman, Mrs. Pulliam, assisted by Miss Waite, Mrs. H. Ward, Mrs. McClure and Mrs. Hawkins.

Relishes.

Chairman, Mrs. R. A. Blackburn, assisted by Miss Minnie Blackburn, Mrs. Deal, Mrs. Carr and Mrs. Knight.

Butter and Sugar.

Chairman, Mrs. F. Parker, assisted by Mesdames J. F. McIntyre, Temple, S. L. Ward, Witham and Wells.

The refreshments will be served at about the noon hour, and the wretched man who appears not there with blistered hands and a pleasant countenance will thereafter be an object of suspicion in the community.

The cohorts of the unemployed will meet at the city hall at 8 o'clock. Every one should come provided with a shovel, rake, hoe or fork, or all of them. It is suggested that these implements bear some distinguishing mark to which the owner can truthfully make affidavit after the trouble is over, for when arms are stacked at luncheon time there is liable to be a mix-up.

In addition to clearing up parkways, it is also proposed to sow poppy seed in place of the weeds removed, so that contributions of this seed will be very acceptable.

The city will be divided into districts, every one under the charge of some designated leader, so that by systematic effort everything possible will be accomplished.

Let everybody do something. It is a movement for the good of all. Report at 8 a. m.

Correspondence

Dear Editor

I desire to express very hearty appreciation and co-operation in the part the Civic Committee of the Ladies' Tuesday Afternoon Club have taken in the matter of a "Clean-up Day" for our city. We need it, and the ladies are on the right road, and earnest in their endeavor to give us a cleaner and more beautiful city. I believe great good can be accomplished in cleaning up our streets, and in the proper planting of trees in the park-ways, and the ladies who have so courageously taken up the work should be encouraged in every way. And we surely can help them, if the right spirit is manifested by all our people. It surely is a matter that every citizen should be interested in, and it only means a little to each one, and a happy day for all.

The plan set forth, which you, Mr. Editor, have so kindly elaborated in this issue, is the plan carried out in other neighboring cities to their great good. And cannot we do the same? We certainly can! Let us all turn out for just one day, and get on to the "band wagon" of progress and civic beauty and demonstrate what we can do in Glendale. Don't go at it half-heartedly but catch the spirit of beauty and progress, and work with that in mind, and we will all be surprised at the transformation made by "the man with the hoe."

The hoe will be the chief instrument of warfare with now and then a rake and fork.

So put on your overalls,
And bring along your hoe,
We'll make the streets look clean and neat
And poppy seeds we'll sow.

We want two hundred and fifty workers, no able man or boy will be rejected, and we can have them if you will all do your part.

The day is called "Glendale City Improvement Day," and it means for the whole of Glendale. Let there be no imaginary lines of east or west, north or south, but the whole city, and if our friends of Casa Verdugo and Kenneth road desire to "get busy" and adorn their own respective locality, we say God speed them, and ask them to our dinner of baked beans, brown bread, pumpkin pie and coffee, served by the ladies at Fourth street and Glendale avenue. You will be more than welcome, for there will be sufficient for all who work. Let us make a grand holiday of it, and everybody turn out. Come early and stay late. Let the bells ring in the morning, toot your horns, hang out your flags, and put a banner suitably inscribed on every vehicle, proclaiming for one day that Glendale is wide awake, and proposes to "do things."

It will mean much for our city, not only in the advertising we will get, not only in the purification of the air in the passing smoke from the piles of rubbish we will burn, but it means the cementing of fellowship and friendship, by coming together for one day, on one common plane, and working hand in hand for that which is for the good of all. Don't forget the day, Saturday, Dec. 7th.

WILMOT PARCHER.

It is a matter of regret to all those interested in the Glendale City Improvement Day, that a few of our best workers and enthusiastic residents, will be unable to assist because of their conscientious regard for Saturday as the Sabbath. It seemed unadvisable however to change the day after it had been selected.

GLENDALE, CAL., NOVEMBER 30, 1907

The Financial Situation

Dispatches from New York indicate a slight improvement in conditions there. The experiment made by a firm of money brokers, who offered money for sale at a premium on the curb, a scheme which in times of real shortage of money has sometimes been lucrative to its promoters, did not prove a success. At the same time the New York bank reserves are too low to warrant a very prompt return to normal conditions there and the rest of the country will naturally be influenced by and follow in the lead of the banks in that great center of financial operations.

The condition of banks generally, both in west and east, is really more sound and substantial than it was sixty days ago; reserves have generally increased so that the funds of depositors are better protected than before the trouble occurred.

In some cases, probably, the banks have not been as accommodating to their depositors as they should be; but as a general rule they are doubtless being conducted in a way that best protects the interests of all concerned.

Locally, we do not seem to be suffering any serious effects from the prevailing scarcity of real money in circulation, as property is changing hands, houses are being built and our traders pursue the even tenor of their way. Street work is unfortunately tied up in cases where contracts have not been let, and on this account alone we have reasou to complain of the prevalence of the governor's holidays.

"Bryan Talks on Money"

This is the caption of a recent dispatch in one of the dailies, and is inflicted upon the suffering public as a news item. Can anybody remember the time since the star of William J. rose on the western horizon that he was not talking about money? He spoke with the voice of an oracle and when he wrote it was not as the scribes wrote, but with the voice of authority. There was nothing uncertain in his tone, and a very large number of his fellow citizens regarded his utterances as inspired by the very fount of wisdom!

He told a waiting world that there could be no prosperity without the free coinage of silver, and when prosperity came he denied its reality, altho his bank account testified that he himself was riding on its topmost wave. He denied that prosperity was possible, and yet it came to him so generously that it kept his frugal wife busy raking it in with both hands.

He said that without free coinage prices could not advance; that wheat and other farm products could not go higher, altho every day through a whole campaign the market reports stared him in the face and called him a wild-eyed, woolly warper of the truth.

But now he is talking "again" and that reminds us of the story of the hen-pecked husband who was talked to sleep by his tireless other half. Early in the morning he was awakened from restful slumber by her familiar voice. Turning over sleepily he asked in that soothing tone of the just-awakened one, "My dear, are you talking again—or yet?"

Is it again—or yet, with William J.?

The Cleaning-up Crusade

Following the example of Sierra Madre and other towns, Glendale people are going to see to it that the streets and sidewalks put on a cleaner and more attractive garb.

Next Saturday is the day set apart for this public housecleaning, and there will doubtless be such a clearing up as has never before been seen in this or any other town of our class.

It is to be hoped that citizens of all sections and conditions will take hold of the job with vigor and show what good work can be accomplished by united effort. The field is large and cannot be entirely covered, but the work will be put in places where it will do the most good and the outside sections can be cared for afterwards. We hope that every citizen of Glendale will dedicate the day to the public service, remembering that "the man with the hoe" (or the rake) will be the man of the hour, and the inner man of him will be ministered to by appetizing viands and by the cup that cheers but is not tabooed even in our "dry town."

This campaign, started by the ladies of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, is the first of a series which gives promise of the building up of a city beautiful.

Following the cleaning up of the streets, parkways and the most obtrusive of the vacant lots, there will be a campaign of tree planting, carried on we believe with that intelligence and enthusiasm which insures success. Success cannot be secured, however, without the hearty co-operation of our people, for altho our enterprising ladies may start the ball rolling and push with all their might, the man and the boy behind the hoe and the rake will after all be the real "men behind the guns."

Street Paving

This is a matter of great interest to all property owners in incorporated cities, and in view of the many miles of street work that will probably be done in Glendale within the next year, is of especial interest to this section. It is not a matter that anyone is justified in being dogmatic about, for the different systems in general use here are all comparatively new and it is quite probable that the next two or three years will see the problem settled for a few years at least in favor of some one of the methods spoken of at the meeting of municipalities held in Pasadena week before last. We clip the following from the account of the meeting given in the Pasadena News:

"City Engineer S. J. Van Ornum of Pasadena spoke on the bitulithic pavement which Pasadena is shortly to place on Los Robles avenue, the work which has caused more discussion than any other in some months. He stated that Pasadena would be the first place in the state of California to use this style of pavement and therefore would be the cynosure of all municipal eyes. Mr. Van Ornum outlined its main characteristics and good points."

In the afternoon session Engineer Postle of South Pasadena and Glendale spoke in place of T. H. James, city engineer of Santa Monica, who was scheduled to speak on petrolithic pavement for streets.

"For residence streets it is the cheapest pavement that can be laid," said Mr. Postle. "It is both noiseless and sanitary and for a number of years can be repaired at a minimum cost. The process of applying this pavement is first oiling the natural surface with a heavy asphalt oil, solidifying the top from four to six inches with a tamping roller. This makes an an oiled layer one-half foot thick which is hard enough to stand ordinary traffic and combines the qualities of durability and noiselessness. Macadam may be laid for ten cents the square foot, while this petrolithic pavement may be laid for three cents the square foot."

Street Inspector Edwards of Los Angeles was scheduled to speak later in the day on the Hassam pavement and the use of vitrified brick, while the presentation of good qualities of oil macadam was in the hands of A. P. Campbell, city engineer of Riverside.

F. J. Boland, the new city engineer of Hanford, spoke of the virtues of asphalt concrete of which the city of Hanford has 37,370 square feet. He showed it to be good both from an economic and sanitary viewpoint."

Of interest also in this connection, is the opinion of Charles H. Peiper, city engineer of San Jose, in reference to cements. He said:

"I regard the testing of cement as most important. Every bit of cement used should be subjected to test. Cements are all so ununiform. We give the boiling test, the cold-water test, the seven-day test, the twenty-eight-day test, which I regard as the most important, the swelling test. We test for general fineness. I do not approve of combining two cements, such as using domestic cement for foundation and foreign cement for surfacing. Swelling is liable to occur in this case."

The speaker referred to the California Standard and the Golden Gate as standing the tests best of any of the Portland cements.

Meeting of Los Angeles District Woman's Clubs

Monrovia was the place chosen for the annual meeting of the Los Angeles District California Federation Woman's Clubs, which was held in the fine new club house built by the club women of that city.

Although there was considerable outside entertainment of the guests, close attention was given to the program of good things arranged by the district workers.

The cordial address of welcome was given by Mrs. Northup, president of the Monrovia Club, and was fittingly responded to by the president of the district federation, Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, a fine, strong, capable woman, whom the federation later honored by re-election.

The survey of the work as given by the corresponding secretary showed great activity among club women along a great variety of lines of work.

One of the most vital topics treated was that of the "Welfare of the Whole," by Mrs. Bauerhyte of Los Angeles, whose work and studies along philanthropic lines give her words undoubted weight.

Many subjects coming under the various departments of Literature, Art, Education, Forestry, Household Economics, etc., were ably treated by representative women who spoke almost entirely without notes.

The talk by Mrs. Rodman, chairman of the department of Civics, which was illustrated by magic lantern pictures, appealed forcibly to all. The contrast before and after the committee had taken hold of cleaning up various parts of Los Angeles, was marked and convincing. Mrs. Rodman showed many pictures in this and foreign lands illustrating her points and urged the women to act in the matter of municipal improvement, telling them of work being planned for the bettering and beautifying of Los Angeles by the Civic Association under the direction of Mr. Robinson, the landscape architect, whose work is planning, laying out and improving cities.

The work of the Playground Commission, working under the city of Los Angeles, was spoken of. There are being operated and established public playgrounds with which are connected swimming and wading pools, gymnasiums, club houses, roof gardens and libraries. The play is wisely directed by the director of the playground, some of which also have a nurse and kindergarten.

The exhibits of arts and crafts, ceramics, household utilities, etc., was good and interesting. "An Afternoon with Art and Artists" was most enjoyable, including as it did addresses by those well qualified to instruct and entertain.

The next meeting of the district will be held at Venice.

Glendale was represented by Mesdames Morris, Danford and Wells.

GLENDALE DELEGATE.

No Gas Yet

The Board of Trade Monday evening while expressing a unanimous desire to have the Southern California Gas Circuit Co. come into Hollywood did not come to any agreement with Secretary Mock of that company. Chairman Merrill of the board committee reported adversely on a form of contract submitted by Mock, while the contract prepared by Merrill was not acceptable to Mock. To a rank outsider the differences seemed rather immaterial as to probable effects, but both gentlemen being lawyers, and each one claiming to be right they could not agree. The report of the committee was adopted by the board, with the understanding that if the two attorneys came to an agreement, a special meeting might be called to ratify it.—Hollywood Citizen.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

There was a good attendance at the regular meeting of the club last Tuesday, Vice-President Mrs. Blackburn presiding in the absence of Mrs. Morris. The topic for the day was "inter-Colonial Wars." Mrs. Colby and Mrs. Blackburn read papers on this subject, both of which were so excellent that the members were led to realize as never before the real fascination to be found in the history of those early years of struggle and hardship when the foundations of the republic were being laid. Mrs. Wells made a very interesting report on the meeting of the Federation of Woman's Clubs, held at Monrovia. Mrs. Sherer as chairman of the civics committee gave a report of preparations made for a general holiday on Saturday, December 7th, for the purpose of cleaning up Glendale streets, sowing poppy seed on the parkways, etc. The report was received and discussed with enthusiasm. At the close of the meeting, tea and wafers were served.

Agrippina roses in a quaint silver pitcher, a very old family heirloom, formed a most attractive centerpiece for the banquet table.

On Wednesday afternoon in the grammar school very good exercises were held in the various rooms, consisting of readings and especially prepared music, making good programs full of the good old Thanksgiving spirit. In the first and second grades dolls and Teddy bears were in evidence, to the great delight of the little ones. The various rooms were very pretty in floral decorations and board drawings were especially appropriate.

Mrs. Walter C. Fraley arranged a most unique and enjoyable affair for Thursday, celebrating Thanksgiving and three birthdays all at once. Besides the regular dinner of seasonable good things there were three candle lighted birthday cakes, it being the birthdays of Mr. Fraley and their sons, Walter and George. Red roses combined with plumosus and lighted taper in silver candelabra, formed pleasing accessories to the feast. Mrs. H. E. Fraley of La Crescenta was a guest.

A charming birthday party on Monday evening was given by Mr. and Mrs. Ezra F. Parker, in their Lomita avenue home, to honor the fifteenth birthday of their daughter, Miss Lucile. Soft yellow lights and many yellow chrysanthemums beautified the pretty rooms, and the table was beautiful in pale yellow, green and white. Many lovely gifts found their way to the young honoree, who presented each guest with a fine chocolate cup and saucer as souvenirs. Miss Evelyn Ryan, Miss Emily Ellias of Tropico, Miss Mabel Kerr, Miss Maisie McCan and Miss Berenice Williams were guests.

Mrs. L. C. Brand entertained on Wednesday night in the Country Club house, about one hundred guests being present, many of them from Los Angeles. Stamm's orchestra furnished music during reception hours, when Mrs. Brand was assisted by Miss George, her neice, and Miss Grace Raleigh, Miss Mary Lindley, Miss Florence Clark, Miss Raybell Mooreland Miss Josephine McMullen and Miss Sallie Utley, all of Los Angeles. The game of "500" was played and later refreshments were daintily served by a city caterer. A special car brought many of the guests at 8 o'clock.

The best time ever was that enjoyed by the picnic party on Thanksgiving Day, that met early in the day at the "Priory" and proceeded to beautiful Verdugo Park, taking turkeys and many seasonable accessories with them. Hot coffee was made beside running water and the feast served among the ferns and cresses. Those participating were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar W. Pack, Mrs. William Mitchell and daughters, Misses Francis and Minnie Eyre and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Thackaberry of Dublin, Ireland; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Whittaker, Miss Ina and Reginald Whittaker, Mrs. William Rogers Penn the Misses Emma and Minnie Penn, Walter and Fraser Penn. The many toasts called for were original and in keeping with the season, and every minute was enjoyed.

One of the jolliest of Thanksgiving feasts was given on Thursday on Verdugo road at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Sinclair. A huge turkey reposed (for a while) on either end of the long table, flanked with chickens and seasonable dainties. Holly and carnations made handsome floral decorations. Covers were laid for 34. Among those present were Prof. and Mrs. Barclay, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Holcomb, Earnest and Tim Holcomb, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Shaw Irene and Marie Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sinclair and Pearl Sinclair, all of Los Angeles, and Mrs. A. Wickerd of Eagle Rock, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Wickerd of Alhambra, Mr. Ray Wickerd, Wilbur, Elwood and Miss Margery Wickerd, Alhambra; and F. R. Sinclair, wife and children, Affa, Zenith, Vera, Fred, Minnie and Isaiah Sinclair. Dinner was served at one o'clock.

One of the gayest and jolliest of holiday dinners was given on Thursday in the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Bryant, when garlands of greenery and masses of flaming poinsettias were utilized to lend a festive air. Dinner was served in the back parlor for twenty-eight hungry people. A turkey held down either end of the long table but it is useless to try to name all that reposed between. Place-cards were uproariously funny original verses. As de from the genial host his wife and their sons, the twins and Albert, were Mrs. T. J. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Fergason, and daughter Esther; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Smith and son Clarence, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Birker and son Dana, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Goss and son Will, Mr. and Mrs. W. Emory and children, Owen Juanita, Gilbert, Josephine and Alice Bell.

LADIES' AID NOVELTY SALE.

The entertainment and bazaar given Saturday evening last at the Odd Fellows' Hall by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church, under the management of Mrs. Daniel Campbell, was a pronounced success. The Rev. S. L. Ward opened the program with appropriate remarks, and an enjoyable program followed. The numerous booths were well patronized, those where ice cream and candy were on sale being the most popular. At the novelty table the following ladies were in attendance: Mrs. Colvin, Mrs C. F. Parker, Mrs. Mary Fiske, Mrs S. M. Galloway, Mrs. H. Sinclair, Mrs. Huddleston and Mrs. J. Mansfield.

At the delicatessen counter there was an attractive display of viands in great variety, which were dispensed by Mrs. G. E. Williams, Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. Lott, Miss Fielding, Mrs. Ayres, Mrs. Morrow, Mrs. Gillelan, Miss Ruth Byram, Mrs. Ezra Parker and Mrs. M. V. Colburn.

Misses Gertrude and Irene Ward, in pretty Persian costumes, dispensed the sweet cakes of the Orient.

In the ice cream corner Mrs. Ogg, Mrs. McCoy and Mrs. Knight, assisted by other volunteers, were kept busy serving cornucopias filled with frozen sweetness.

The many friends of Miss Nora Harnett were glad to greet her at the candy booth, where she, with Miss Waite and Mrs. Nichols, was assisted by a corps of attractively costumed young ladies.

Miss Harriet Dow and Miss Ora Jones served ginger-ade to the thirsty.

The evening's entertainment wound up with an auction sale, at which the remaining articles of the delicatessen department were knocked off to fortunate purchasers. The result of the entertainment was a liberal addition to the treasury of the society.

THE MUSICAL DONKEY.

A Prosey Idyl in Three Chapters.

CHAPTER I.

Some of the most notable journeys of which we read in history have been performed on the hurricane deck of a donkey. Although from ill usage the race of donkeys may eventually become extinct, his memory is to be preserved in song and story and in bronze and marble.

Ever since the time when the Savior made his triumphal entrance into Jerusalem dos d'ane, the donkey has been held in high esteem, if not actual veneration by all civilized peoples; and as far as one knows it is only within the pastoral precincts of our own village that the ban of proscription has been placed upon him.

Tradition has it that once upon a time, in an earlier period of the corporate existence of Glendale, a petition or remonstrance largely subscribed to by fair women and brave men was sent up to the city fathers, asking for the immediate and unconditional removal of the sole and only one of these docile, mild-eyed and harmless little creatures that was ever permanently domiciled within our borders.

The reasons given for this drastic movement reflecting so seriously upon the race of donkeys, seemed plausible enough when received from the standpoint of the reformers, whose oft iterated slogan was pro bono publico, but in extenuation in behalf of the persecuted, let me anticipate here and say

The donkey like the canary bird sings loudest when happiest, and the individual donkey that is to be made the subject of this sketch, unfortunately was possessed of a voice more especially attuned to the uncultured ear of the rural districts, rather than to those that respond only to the notes of Chopin, Mozart and Wagner. Of this latter class there are sufficient numbers in our little city to fill a long-felt want.

The complaining witness in this case all seemed to agree upon one vital point, viz.: The donkey's voice was cracked in the upper registers and in his exuberant efforts to reach high C, sometimes made use of the falsetto, or head (and ears) tone, which made his music so distasteful to the real vocalist who derives very little satisfaction from anything along vocal lines not classic and strictly up-to-date.

CHAPTER II.

But the petition referred to was sent up to the Council on a silver platter containing a snap shot portrait of the donkey as he appeared in one of his favorite vocal stunts, and having a base cleff in G minor carved in relief on its surface, a very fitting symbol of the occasion.

The remonstrance embossed on parchment, set forth the desperate necessities of the case, and prayed that the offending creature be at once removed to some retired spot where the inhabitants were not as well informed as to the "real thing" when they see or hear it.

Now it is solemnly averred (and this paragraph is interjected here to show "what fools we mortals be") that there is a young woman somewhere within ear-shot of the writer's cheap lodgings who, in trying to learn to sing and play on the piano at the same time can make more distressing noise in the brief space of an hour than this little animal could make under the most favorable conditions in a whole day. But this is neither here nor there. The young lady will keep right on trying to sing and play, and will continue to be loved and admired just as she should be, no doubt, while the poor donkey is being relegated to the rear.

CHAPTER III.

The scene now changes and the story that follows is vouched for by one of Glendale's oldest inhabitants, a gentleman who emigrated to this country from Missouri where the raising of mules (whose early ancestors on the paternal side were nothing more or less than donkeys) has been carried to a science.

The city marshal in compliance with the written law, and with the badge of authority pinned on his left breast, made several ineffectual attempts to remove the donkey before being able to accomplish that feat, and this is about what took place meantime.

Those who have been most intimately associated with the burro know very well what his habits of expression are when pleased, and that he is playful and fond of attention. So when the city's guardian with all the pomp and circumstance of the power visited in him, approached the corral where the little animal was tethered, and thrust his warrant of arrest and ejectment through a crack in the fence, the burro in his innocence delighted at this mark of attention from so distinguished a functionary, took the harmless looking paper in his mouth, and after rolling it like a sweet morsel under his tongue, swallowed it without blinking an eye. Then, as if to add insult to injury he kicked up his heels and after bucking around the corral a couple of times, concluded the performance with a weird burst of song that fairly sent a thrill down the spinal column of the marshall. This act was regarded by the purveyor of justice as an unprovoked attempt to resist an officer, and at this juncture matters were looking serious enough.

However, considering discretion the better part of valor, and not wishing to jeopardize the peace and dignity of the city by jumping recklessly into the corral and seizing the donkey single handed and alone, the marshal very thoughtfully stepped to a telephone box and turned in a riot call. In a few moments the patrol wagon with clanging bell came thundering down the avenue. An old lady with spectacles just in from the country, whose ears had been greatly ravished by the donkey's peculiar songs, cried out "fire!" and "murder!" at the top of her voice; a score or more of dogs began to bark furiously (the small boy howling in unison) and a large number of cats with tails erect and spread to the breeze, scampered for shelter under the adjoining buildings. For a time a riot seemed imminent.

At this exciting stage of the proceedings the marshal after swearing in a couple of deputies walked deliberately to the cage, and by the aid of long ropes thrown over the fence from the outside, the three men finally manacled the burro and led him away in triumph, amid the cheers of the populace to some remote place far beyond the city limits.

THE PEPPER TREE.

How to Plant It; Other Street Trees for This Section.

There is no doubt, if it is properly handled, that the pepper tree is nearest to the ideal for street planting. The chief and in fact the only objection urged against it is that it raises the sidewalk and pushes out the curb, either by roots or buttresses of the trunk. These difficulties are easily avoided if proper preparation is made. The pepper roots and buttresses are made above ground only because of resistance below. If the soil is loose and permeable for a considerable distance below the surface the roots will delve deeply and no trouble will be experienced. On the other hand, if the ground is so hard that top resistance is less than that below no other result must be expected than that the roots will come up and the trunk buttress widely because it cannot go down; therefore it must grow sidewise. This argument will hold good, in greater or lesser measure with all trees.

In all parts of California, under varying conditions of soil, climate and treatment no tree has proven more worthy of extensive street planting than the Black Wattle, Acacia decurrens. I have noted it from north of San Francisco down to San Diego and inland to Redlands and the failures have been few. Two closely allied species of equal value are A. dealbata and A. Molissima. For the flat lands where the soil moisture is considerable or where irrigation can be given several of the entire-leaved acacias may be used, of which the best is the Blackwood, Acacia Melonoxylon. There are several other species in this family, which may be used to gain variety, for few of the acacias are unfit for street alignment.

Some streets should be planted to other trees of which the St. John's Bread or Carob and the Catalina Cherry are worthy examples and an occasional avenue of palms will lend spice to the landscape. Of these latter the Mexican Fan Palm, Washingtonia robusta is one of the best and far preferable to the California Fan Palm, W. filifera. For narrow streets palms are especially suited and for the narrowest the Windmill Palm (Trachy carpus excelsus) is a good subject. A far better palm than any mentioned, though slower in growth and of greater cost, is the Guadalupe Palm, Erythea edulis, easily the most beautiful of all the fan-leaved section. In comparatively frostless sections the Ostrich Plume Palm, Cocos plumosa is the most beautiful plant of arborescent growth that he world produces and in Santa Barbara beautiful avenues of them may be seen, lending to the landscape a tropical luxuriance and splendor impossible of accomplishment by the use of any other plant.

The German Evangelical church of Burbank, that was erected this summer on Magnolia avenue, held its quarterly meeting Sunday, November 24th. Rev. C. Gruen, P. E. of the Los Angeles District, held the service. The work is in charge of Rev. F. Cordes, who preaches every Sunday at 3 o'clock.

A. Orsdo, a Mexican laborer, and a companion, L. Aries were killed Saturday, when the "Owl" train, south bound from San Francisco, ran them down directly in front of the depot. A number of persons witnessed the accident. Both men were frightfully mangled. Aries was instantly killed, while Orsdo lived two hours after the accident.

A very favorable report was given Tuesday evening at the school meeting by the eight committees who have been getting signers, in the different districts, concerning Burbank withdrawing from the Glendale High School district. Fifty above the desired number have signed, and yet the districts have not been closely canvassed. E. W. Cook, the Burbank trustee, will present the petitions to the High School trustees to be signed. C. B. Fischer, O. Meyers and E. W. Cook were appointed to take the petitions after the trustees had signed them, to the Supervisors at Los Angeles.

A good deal of excitement was caused here Saturday evening about 3 o'clock when the barn of O. C. Lane, Sr., was burned to the ground. It was not known definitely how it caught. Mrs. Milton Lane a short time before went out to the barn to get some things, lighting a match to see with, and probably threw it down before it was out. Some think that probably some of the Mexicans set it on fire for spite work. About ten ton of unbaled hay was in the barn, and this caught at once. Two horses were burned, as aid could not get to them. Farming implements, buggies, a half ton of walnuts and the furniture of Milton Lane were all lost. There was no insurance.

BURBANK AND THE HIGH SCHOOL

It was announced at the recent meeting of citizens at the High School building, by a large delegation from Burbank, that that grammar school district had decided unanimously to withdraw from the Glendale Union High School district, in order to establish a High School district of their own. Their action in making the announcement at that time was perfectly proper and commendable. In order to withdraw, however, it is necessary that their petition shall be signed by a majority of the heads of families in the entire union district, so that they are unable to withdraw unless they have practically the consent of the remainder of the district.

Petitions are now being circulated with this object in view. While it is a matter of regret that the district cannot remain intact, it seems to us ungenerous and unfair to our Burbank neighbors to withhold from them the privilege of withdrawal, if they insist upon it with practical unanimity. A number of the young people in our neighboring town who would like to avail themselves of the advantages of a High School, are unable to do so because of the distance they are removed from it. Counting in this number with the pupils now in attendance at the Glendale High School, they have as many pupils to start with as there were on the roll of our school for its first year.

It is quite evident that Burbank is not going backward, but with the rest of us, is destined to increase rapidly in population and importance from this time forward. For Burbank's sake, and for the best interest of the remainder of the district, it seems to us that this inevitable separation should take place now, rather than in two or three years hence. Assuming that Burbank can remain in the district long enough to vote on the important question of a large bond issue, and then withdraw and be relieved of the responsibility of paying any portion of the debt created by a vote in favor of bonds, it is manifestly unfair to all concerned that they should do this. Assuming again (for the legal aspect of the question has not yet been made clear) that Burbank should vote on the bond question and withdraw within two or three years, and be relieved of further share in the indebtedness of the union district, it would still be unfair to the remainder of the district: for the proportion of the debt that its people might pay in that time (on bonds running 20 or 40 years) would be comparatively little. It has been said that it would not be to the advantage of the young people of Burbank to give up the privileges afforded by a High School of the first rank, for one in their home district which must neecessarily in the beginning take a lower place, on account of its inferior equipment. This is an argument which can as well be made perpetual; for in the nature of things it is not now, nor will it hereafter be possible for a newly established High School to be flung into the arena full fledged to wrestle with its seniors. It seems to us, therefore, very clear that if the people of Burbank seriously intend to establish a High School district of their own in the near future that they should, in fairness to the whole district, be permitted to do so at once, and that the people of Glendale and of the other grammar school districts affected should sign the petitions to that effect.
